

Quincy – the quintessential shoe boutique opens in Woollahra

Quincy – the quintessential shoe boutique – has opened its doors at 76 Queen Street, Woollahra.

Not just a store, Quincy is a remarkable retail environment. Reminiscent of a Parisian boutique and recalling an era where service is an essential part of the customer experience, Quincy will surprise and delight, not only with its inspiring collections, but with the warm, welcoming and luxurious atmosphere and little touches created especially for Quincy's valued friends.

Quincy's shoe, bag and accessories collections follow the European season, so the Quincy customer is always assured of finding the latest from the world's leading luxury brands at equivalent prices. The Australian customer has been catered for, with collections featuring sizes up to European 42 (Australian size 12).

Quincy is currently stocking Spring/Summer 2008 shoes and bags from the following designers:

- Marc by Marc Jacobs
- Manolo Blahnik
- Michael Kors
- Celine
- Emilio Pucci
- Diane von Furstenberg
- Donna Karan
- Belle by Sigerson Morrison
- Christian Lacroix
- Rupert Sanderson
- Botkier

More than a shoe store

Step into the Quincy store and you will be transported to a relaxing, welcoming environment, including complimentary tea, coffee and snacks, electronic foot massages and children's play area. The second floor houses limited edition shoes from each collection, in the Quincy Heel Gallery. Where a rotating exhibit of art is balanced with the finest shoes shown on pedestals and displayed as the works of art they are.

Kate McDiven, Director of Quincy, said, "My goal is to bring the European designer experience to Australian women. Not only does Quincy deliver the latest collections in line with European seasons, but the entire store experience will be warm, friendly and inviting."
